

Name: _____

So and Such

- Both of these words mean “very,” but we use them in different types of sentences.

Directions: Write your own examples below.

So + ADJ/ADV

1. The flower is so beautiful.

2. _____

So + Many/Few + Plural Countable Noun

3. There are so many students.

4. _____

So + Much/Little + Uncountable Noun

5. There's so little food for such a big party.

6. _____

So + ADJ/ADV + that + result... (Ex. He was so hungry that he ate all the McDonalds.)

7. She was so upset that she broke up with him.

8. _____

Verb + So + Much/Little/Often

9. He talks so much.

10. _____

Such + (a) + ADJ + countable noun / plural noun / uncountable noun

11. He's such a nice guy.

12. This is such good food.

13. They are such clever kids.

14. _____

Such + (a) + ADJ + noun + that + result (She was such a lost girl that she called the police.)

15. He was such an excellent player that he won the game.

16. _____

Fill in the blanks with so / such.

1. He is _____ kind! Every time he sees me, he gives me a compliment.
2. Don and Lydia are _____ hard-working _____(noun). They have really helped the company succeed.
3. Nadia has _____ much patience. She teaches a class of 35 kindergartners, but she never shouts.
4. I had never seen _____ lizards before I visited the Galapagos, but there are hundreds of them on the islands.

5. That cake was _____ good that I ordered another one for Katelyn's birthday party.

6. Arthur doesn't have _____ big ideas of traveling the world. He is a simple man who prefers to spend his time with his grandchildren.

7. He's _____ a crazy _____ (noun). He's so unpredictable!

Look at the pictures. Use so and such to describe what you see.

